

Love, Lockdown Letters

Dear penned friends,

So we're locked-out of each other's worlds again - and some of us are pretty much locked to screens for contact - but we can also stay in touch through the post! How about sending each other a little something to hold? Here is a chance to light up someone's heart, on what may be a dark day.

All you have to do is send your address to Assembly % lovelockdownletters@gmail.com and you will receive an address in return. You then commit to sending a letter, postcard, drawing, or gift to that address. At some surprise point, you will receive something through the post from a one-time pen friend!

You can stay anonymous or give your name. Each address will be randomly assigned, and used for this sole purpose; then deleted. You can apply more than once, if you want to enjoy sending and receiving mail to different people, multiple times. This free exchange service will run till 31st December 2020.

You can send anything - use your imagination! - but of course, nothing ill-spirited, lewd, or that might cause upset. Think 'welcome surprise' for anyone who might receive it.

You might want to spend time crafting an elegant epistle, or simply scribble a thought on a postcard. It might be a drawing or collage, or some pressed flowers. Perhaps it's a poem or quote or joke. Up to you - but whatever it is, SEND IT!!!!

Let's bring each other some cheer through apocalypse o'clock!

Love,
Lockdown Letters
